

TAGALOG WEEK 1 ANSWER KEY

Fixed answers, acceptable variants, and sample responses

How to Use This Key

Parts 1, 2, and 4 are open-ended. The samples show correct Week 1 patterns, not the only possible answers.

Part 1: Sample Introduction

1. Ano ang pangalan mo?

Ako si Maya.

2. Taga-saan ka?

Taga-Cebu ako.

3. Saan ka nag-aaral?

Nag-aaral ako sa isang unibersidad.

4. Ano ang inaaral mo?

Nag-aaral ako ng Tagalog.

5. Kumusta ka?

Masaya ako. / Ayos lang ako.

Part 2: Family Names

Any real or fictional names are acceptable when they are placed under the intended family role.

Part 3: Memory Check

English	Accepted answer
Mother	Nanay or Ina
Father	Tatay or Ama
Older brother	Kuya
Older sister	Ate
Youngest child or sibling	Bunso
Cousin	Pinsan

SAMPLE DESCRIPTIONS AND REVIEW NOTES

Open-ended examples and accepted forms

Part 4: Sample Descriptions

Mabait si Nanay.

Masipag si Tatay.

Nakakatawa si Kuya.

Matalino si Ate.

Masaya si Bunso.

Accepted Variants

- Accept Kumusta? and common Kamusta? when spelling conventions allow.
- Accept Ayos lang ako. and Okay lang ako.
- For a field of study, Nag-aaral ako ng ____ is the primary model in this lesson.
- Na-stress ako. is the primary study form; Stressed ako. is familiar Taglish, and nai-stress ako may also appear.
- Kuya and Ate can also function as respectful forms of address, but this lesson teaches older brother and older sister.
- Tiyo/Tiya and Tito/Tita are recognized variants for uncle and aunt.
- Bunso means the youngest child or sibling, not any younger sibling.

Review Boundary

This answer key supports the specific Week 1 activities. It should not be treated as a complete grammar reference or a substitute for fluent-speaker feedback.